OVERVIEW:

TIMING

FORECAST CHALLENGES

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

POST-EVENT OUTLOOK

- Coastal low pressure may bring accumulating snow to Southern New England Sunday, ending Sunday night.
- While amounts are still subject to adjustment, highest confidence in accumulations near or over 6 inches is central and southern RI into southeast MA and Cape Cod/Islands.

	•				•
HAZARDS &		lue to slick Cape Cod.	snow-covere	d roads and	low visibility	mainly

Difficult travel north/west of I-95 due to snow-covered roads.

Begins Sunday morning. Heaviest late-AM to late-PM Sunday.

Winter Storm Watch: Portions of southern CT, much of RI (excluding northern Providence County), southeast MA, Cape Cod and the Islands. In NWS ALERTS Effect Sunday Morning to Late Sunday Night.

> Accumulations north and west of I-95 are the most uncertain and will hinge on the storm's eventual track.

 Potential for a sharp northwest gradient in snow accumulations, greatest south and east and least north and west.

Expected Snowfall - Official NWS Forecast • Highs in the 20s з.o ў 2.0

• 6 AM Sat. National Weather Service Boston/Norton, MA 02/05/2021 02:26 PM EST

Dry weather

to mid 30s

Sunday and Monday.

returns Monday.

NEXT BRIEFING

Follow Us: