

- Minor mixed precipitation expected this weekend
- Snow and ice accumulation possible across the higher terrain

- Mainly during the day Saturday, but could linger into Saturday night

- Light accumulations of snow, sleet or ice
- Bridges and overpasses most vulnerable to icing

- No headlines at this time

- Temperatures will be critical
- Daytime accumulations will be tough due to relatively warm ground

- Precipitation trending to rain for most by Saturday afternoon.
- Not overly gusty.
- Elevation will be a factor to accumulating wintry precipitation

- Becoming drier and warmer Sunday into Monday. Lows mainly in the 30s. Highs in the 50s Sunday, and 45-55 Monday.

- 4 PM Friday, unless significant changes warrant.

